Polls and Surveys

The Mavericks also conducted polls and surveys during Blitzschlag 2023. Creative decor pieces like eye-catching paper cards, cute wooden clips and husky brown ropes added to the overall charm and inviting look of the venue, Vivekananda Lecture Theatre Complex (VLTC) and attracted a huge number of participants. The number of responses crossed an overwhelming 300 in two days. Based on the responses from survey-takers, it is clear that the polls and surveys conducted by The Mavericks were a success. The large number of responses recorded indicates a high level of interest and participation in the surveys, while the variety of unique and creative responses suggests that the surveys were well-designed and thought-provoking. One of the polls asked about the sleep time of college students. The poll received a huge variety of responses, which is not surprising given the diverse range of schedules and routines among college students. The results did definitely provide interesting insights into the sleep patterns of college students. Overall, the polls and surveys were an exciting event for both the survey-takers and organisers alike.

On-Ground Reporting

The annual cultural festival, Blitzschlag, was long awaited by the youth of not only Jaipur, but by the students of the entire state of Rajasthan. A team of reporters from The Mavericks undertook on-site reporting in order to measure the crowd's enthusiasm and capture their perspectives. The reporters from The Mavericks questioned members of the public about their experience at Blitzschlag. The questions involved how they felt about all the events that were planned and organised by various clubs and societies, how the decoration was and how impressed they were by the fact that the fest was being conducted after three long years.

Students, families, and faculty members were among the participants questioned by the reporters. The interviews were done throughout the festival, providing for a thorough investigation of the crowd's mood and attitude. The answers from the general population were overwhelmingly positive. The majority of the attendees showed enthusiasm, thrill, and delight at the current happenings. Several respondents claimed that Blitzschlag was the highlight of their year and that they eagerly anticipated going each year. In addition, attendees applauded the fest's ambiance and design. The vibrant and eye-catching decorations created a happy and lively atmosphere. The events were well-organized and varied, appealing to the broad crowd's interests.

Overall, The Mavericks' on-site reporting at Blitzschlag indicated an extremely energetic and involved crowd. The prevailing environment was one of excitement, anticipation, and thrill, with guests expressing their appreciation for the events, ambiance, and decor.

Family Feud

Family Feud was one of the events hosted by The Mavericks, a cultural club of MNIT Jaipur on February 10th in the CV Ramana Hall of the VLTC from noon to two o'clock as part of the annual cultural fest Blitzschlag'23. The event was a parody of the American reality TV programme Family Feud, a game show that Mark Goodson invented and whose current host is Steve Harvey. It features two families who compete to name the most popular answers to survey questions in order to win cash and prizes.

The event began with the announcement of rule by the two hosts, Jayank Gupta and Aarushi Tripathi, followed by the elimination round by means of a quick general knowledge quiz on a Google Form. The top teams were selected for further rounds.

The atmosphere was filled with applause, and the participants' excitement was evident on their faces. The teams competed for the sparkling trophies kept at the centre of the stage. It was entertaining to see the contest between the two squads. The questions were displayed on a screen to simulate the genuine game show setup. The hosts did a commendable job of entertaining and involving the crowd. The two teams were vying for first place in a nail-biting finale after fierce competition. With a crowd of more than 200, excitement and cheer buzzed the room. The crowd held its breath as the teams competed for the glittering trophies. The declaration of the winners was an incredible moment, made all the more special by the effort and enthusiasm put in by both teams.

Team "Dark Brotherhood" was crowned the victor after a series of captivating rounds and a competitive showdown. Everyone seemed to like the event overall, and it was clear that the club members had put a lot of work into organising it.

Bolti Tasveere

Pictures speak louder than words. One would possibly require a thousand words to describe a picture but not vice-versa. That's where the power of visuals comes into the picture. Pictures have the ability to convey abstract and complex concepts in a calm and serene way. The Mavericks, a cultural club of MNIT Jaipur, organised 'Bolti Tasveere' along with several of their other popular events in the recently concluded cultural festival of the institution, Blitzschlag. The event was organised on the 12th of February 2023 in the Vivekananda Lecture Theatre Complex. The event saw a footfall of 400 participants from different colleges who had come to enjoy themselves in the fest. In Bolti Tasveere, participants were shown a set of pictures and had to weave a story around them based on their creativity and imagination on printed sheets provided to them. Participants were also given a pen with the club's logo printed in ink that formed the words "The Mavericks" as a token of appreciation. Upon being asked about their experience, participants expressed their contentment and said that more events that take into account the literary and imaginative skills of a person, such as Bolti Taasveere, should be hosted. Overall, the participants were content with the hosting of the event and thanked the MNIT administration as well as the entire team of The Mavericks.

Acta Diurna

The Mavericks enacted its spine-chilling, terrifying, bloodcurdling and shocking yet realistic murder mystery during the day 02 of Blitzschlag 2023. The event escalated the euphoria of its participants. It gave the journalist in them a chance to evaluate controversy, mystery and confusion in a way that's exclusive to them, and a chance to solve all the predicament thrown at them effortlessly. The event had gathered an audience of 250+ students and it had the most footfall in Blitzschlag after pronites. The mystery revolved around an unanticipated death of a chemist named Suhani Jain. She was a 36 years old researcher in the field of chemistry who worked on the development of reaction models for the production of biodegradable polymers. Her research was quite successful, and many business tycoons wanted her to work for them. She refused offers from big businesses because she wanted to dedicate her life to working for public welfare. She was also keen on teaching and hence took chemistry tuitions every alternate day of the week. One fine Monday evening she goes missing. Her students tried contacting her, they even tried knocking on her apartment's door but received no response. This generated panic and confusion. Soon a missing report was filed followed by a police investigation. The police found her dead in her apartment. They tried interrogating everyone who she had possibly met or talked to in the previous week. The whole script was enacted out to the audience for them to interrogate the suspects and come to a conclusion of who the actual murderer was. The actors flaunted their acting skills and left the audience engaged and spellbound until the very end. The event was conducted in the CV Raman hall of VLTC and was decorated to resemble the crime scene. The event left a life-long impression on all the participants. The cheerful and joyous faces of the participants clearly proved that everybody thoroughly enjoyed the event and were happy to have seen the talented team of The Mavericks.
